CHILD HEALTH NURSING LAB

The Child Health Nursing Department focuses on the specialized care of newborns and children up to 18 years old. The lab is equipped with essential tools such as a Baby Mannequin, a CPR mannequin, a Laryngoscope, an Oxygen Hood, an Ambu Bag, a Mucus Aspirator, an infantometer, and age-appropriate play materials. This facility provides a solid foundation for managing the care of newborns and children through the use of manikins. It enables students to acquire skills necessary for performing and assisting in various pediatric procedures in both clinical and community settings. Moreover, the lab emphasizes the significance of play therapy, with a well-organized selection of play materials suitable for different age groups.

OBSTRETRIC & GYNAECOLOGY NURSING LAB

The Obstetrical and Gynecological Nursing Lab delivers high-quality education and a valuable learning experience for students. It offers comprehensive training in obstetrical and gynecological nursing, combining theoretical knowledge with practical skills to prepare undergraduates for inclusive maternal and neonatal care. The department encourages research focused on women's reproductive health. The lab is equipped with resources that empower students to become educators, managers, and researchers in maternity nursing. Key competencies include providing inclusive care for women during pregnancy and childbirth, integrating theory with practice, engaging in evidence-based clinical learning, and fostering professionalism. The lab features birthing simulators, pelvis models, fetal skulls, various obstetrical instruments, and a birth demonstration model to illustrate the stages of labor. It supports students in gaining the knowledge and skills necessary to care for both normal and high-risk women throughout the antenatal, intranatal, and postnatal periods in hospital and community environments.

ADVANCED NURSING LAB

The lab provides students with scheduled opportunities for skill practice and patient-specific preparation across various specialties. It is equipped with advanced simulators and tools relevant to all nursing disciplines. Instructors play a crucial role in enhancing student learning by guiding them in skill practice and fostering critical thinking. The lab enables students to refine their abilities in advanced nursing procedures such as tracheotomy care, suctioning, bladder irrigation, colostomy management, catheter insertion and care, endotracheal tube placement, blood transfusions, IV fluid administration, and wound dressing.

RODY ADAPTION MODEL

The diagram illustrates the Rody Adaption Model, showing the flow from Stimuli to Adaptive response. The components and their relationships are as follows:

- Stimuli (Diamond shape) leads to Regulation Level (Diamond shape).
- Regulation Level leads to Regulator (Circle shape).
- Regulator leads to Cognator (Circle shape).
- Cognator leads to Adaptive (Teardrop shape).
- Adaptive leads to Output (Oval shape).
- Output leads to Ineffective Response (Diamond shape).
- Ineffective Response leads back to Regulator (Feedback loop).

The diagram also includes several other components that influence the process:

- Input (Oval shape) influences the Regulation Level.
- Processes (Oval shape) influences the Regulator.
- Effortors (Oval shape) influences the Regulator.
- Psychological Function (Oval shape) influences the Regulator.

COMPUTER LAB

Nursing has long been recognized as a highly advanced technical field. Computers play a crucial role in the culture of hospitals and private practices, and therefore in the nursing profession. Various computer systems are utilized for Patient Administration, Electronic Medical Records, and internal communication. The Computer Lab aims to cultivate a foundational understanding of how computers are used and their applications within nursing. Its goal is to assist nursing students in successfully completing their assignments and engaging in more extensive research for their projects. The Computer Lab at Nehru College of Nursing is equipped with an adequate number of computer systems at a ratio of 1:5, all supported by high-speed internet. A 15 KVA UPS system ensures a continuous power supply, and the college is also equipped with Wi-Fi connectivity.

NURSING FUNDAMENTAL LAB

The Nursing Foundation Lab is equipped with high-quality manikins, equipment, and instruments as per regulatory standards. It features simulators that facilitate the initial training in patient care. This immersive simulation closely mimics real-life clinical practices, allowing students to engage in realistic patient scenarios. Students receive close supervision and mentoring in groups from faculty. Basic nursing procedures are demonstrated by instructors, after which students practice on manikins and each other. Once confident, they perform these procedures on actual patients under faculty supervision. Ultimately, the lab offers extensive training for students to develop into competent professional nurses.
